Post-Secondary Awareness Survey

In Kansas, approximately 70% of careers require some type of training or education beyond high school.

During the first quarter of school all 8th graders were asked to complete a Post-Secondary Awareness Survey to gather their opinions about the choices available to them when they graduate from high school. The data in the chart above shows that our 8th graders are very aware that learning doesn't stop when they are handed a high school diploma.

The survey also included data about students' knowledge of scholarships, areas of study they want to pursue and more. Teachers can access the results in Naviance to learn more about their students' interests and plans for the future.

New Tasks for Quarter Two

Naviance is our online platform for helping students develop Individual Plans of Study (IPS.) These plans help students navigate high school and prepare for college or other post-secondary learning as they align their strengths and interests towards the ultimate goal of a rewarding career.

Our first quarter tasks gave us a chance to check our students' development towards college and career exploration. We also were able to learn more about each student's personal interests in school and possible careers.

In our second quarter we have new tasks for all students in every grade level so we can help them further develop their plans of study, helping them define next steps on their journeys to the future.

“The only impossible journey is the one you never begin.”

– Tony Robbins
